SHOOTING AND SHOT BY A POLICEMAN. ROUNDSMAN DELANEY'S BLOODY FIGHT WITH

ROUNDSMAN DELANEY'S BLOODY FIGHT WITH
"BILLY" M'GLORY'S BARTENDER.

Roundsman John Delaney, of the Elizabeth Street
Police, was shot in the eye yesterday by Patrick McGowan, a bar-tender in McGlory's cance hall, at No. 158 Hester-st. The officer shot McGowan twice and he died in a few moments in the police station. The story of the shooting as told by James Nolan, an old tarmer of Danbury, Conn.,
the most important witness examined by the police,
was as follows: He came to New-York last week to sell some hoops for packing-boxes, and he boarded at the Vandyke House, No. 28 Bowery
On Saturday evening he went into the liquor store of Andrew Kelly, at No. 144 Hester-st., to get some beer. He gave to the barkeeper a $20 bank note, who refused to give him any change
He afterward appealed to the police. Captain Petry sent Detective English to the liquor store with Nolan. Kelly sain that his barkeeper had run away with the money. He would not tell his name. Nolan procused a warrant for the bartender's arrest, and Roundsman Delaney went in search of him. Delaney was accompanied to Kelly's store by Nolan and by Albert Kesler, a clerk in the Vandyke House.

When the three men entered the liquor store,
they found several men and two or three women drinking at tables. Delaney started to go up stairs to see Kelly, who was sick in bed. McGowan had been drinking at a table in company with Tillie Cavanagh, of No. 34 Sixth ave., a dissipated young woman, who was intimate with him. She had sort for a cab to take her home, and it was already wasting in front of the liquor store. McGowan, who was friendly with Kelly, who he apparently thought was to be arrested, ran up stairs in advance of Delaney, Nolan and Kesler. As they were following, he turned and struck Nolan and Kesler on the stairs. They retreated behinu Delaney, who showed his shield and said that he was an officer. McGowan cursed the policeman, and drawing a revolver from his pecket, he struck Delaney in the right eye with the butt of the weapon.

coach, in which the woman, Cavanagh, was waiting for him.

Delaney reached the street in time to see McGowan get into the coach and tell the driver to "go it." The coach started toward Elizabeth-st, and Delaney ran after it. He was close to the hind wheels when McGowan fired a shot through the large rear window of the vehicle. The men could see each other plannly. Delaney had drawn his revolver and was raising it when he was shot. Aithough the sight of his right eye was destroyed, he discharged two shots quickly at McGowan, who was standing up in the cab and had cocked his weapon again. McGowan dropped heavily on the seat bestie his companion and began to groan. The woman was frantic with fear and opened a door and sprang, out of the carriage. She was found afterward by the police, and detained as a witness. Cooney, Keliy's barkeeper, was arrested as a participant in the affray. The following persons were taken to the police station also and detained as witnesses: Thomas Cummisky, John O'Brien, John Herbert, Solomon Birunugham. McGowan was thirty-six years old and lived with his widowed mother in Eightieth st., between First and Secondayes.

Coroner Levy began the inquest at the Elizabeth Coroner by began the inquest at the Elizabeth Street Station at 3.p. m. A preliminary examination of the dead man's body showed that both bullets had entered the chest and that one was buried in the heart. One of the witnesses examined was Tillie Cavanagh. She exhibited creat emotion at the sight of her lover's body. Roundsman 'claney was appointed a policeman on November 7, 1873, and he was promoted in 1877 on account of meritorious conduct. He was taken after the shooting to the St. Vincent's Hospital, where it was said last evening that he would probably recover.

FUNERAL OF JOSEPH R. SKIDMORE.

FUNERAL OF JOSEPH R. SKIDMORE.

The funeral of Joseph R. Skidmore took place yesterday atternoon at the Church of the Covenant, which was filled with the triends of Mr. Skidmore. The coffin was followed from the late home of the deceased man to the church by his relatives and intimate friends in carriages. As I was borne into the church without pall locarers it was followed by Mr. Skidmore's widow, leaning on the arm of his brother, William L. The coffin was covered ith handsome cut flowers. The choir was the regular one of the church with the exception of Miss Beebe, who cang the soprano part. The service was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Marvin R. Vincent. Chopin's faneral march was payed by the organist while the funeral procession was moving down the aisle. The first prec o muric sung was the Psalm, "The Lord is My. he h rd." Dr. Vincent then read a passage of crip-arc, and the anthem. "Be Stiff, My Soul," was sung. All of the musical selections were those that Mr. Skidmore had liked above all others.

1. Dr. Vincent, in beginning the funeral sermon, said: "I do not know that my dear old friend would wish me to say anything to-day about him, unless he thought that he might furnish a lesson to some one; and in that benef, no less than from the prompting of my affection for him, I propose to speak briefly of him as I knew him." Dr. Vincent then spoke of Mr. Skidmore's inegrity and honesty in business affairs, of his canseless activity in the service of the charch. After the sermon an opportunity was given for all who desired to look for the last time on the face of their dead friend.

Among those in the church were the Rev. Dr. John Hall, Professor Philip Schaff. William E. Dodge. Among those in the church were the Rev. Dr. John

Mayor Edson has fallen naturally into the routine duties of his office. He arrived at the City Hall early yesterday, and at once proceeded to examine the various papers submitted to him for his signature. He received a large number of callers, including most of the heads of departments. Commissioner I hompson was engaged for a long time with the Mayor. It is understood that Mr. Thompson will soon have introduced into the Legislature his will soon have introduced into the Legislature his bill for a new aqueduct. All the surveys have been made, and work can be began soon after the bill becomes a law. It has once passed both Houses of the Legislature and was veloed by Governor Cornell. The Mayor in his message spoke of the need of an additional water supply, and it is understood that this subject formed the staple of the conversa-

Mayor.

Mr. Edson has expressed a wish to Mayor. Edson has expressed a wish to enlitivate a closer acquaintance with the heads of the various departments. He has not yet expressed his intention with reference to the nominations which he will have to send in to the Aldermen. He will take time to consider the various names submitted by the heads of the two Democratic factions. The nominations made by Mayor Grace, and which were laid upon the table by the old Board of Aldermen, of course, lapse with the expiration of the term of office of the body to whom they were made. The appointments in the Mayor's immediate gift will probably be made slowly. There is one clerkshin vacant—that held by Charles H. Woodman. He has accepted a position in the mercantile house of William H. Grace & Co. William M. Ivins, Mayor Grace's secretary, has also been connected with that firm since January 1. It is understood that Henry Waltman, Registrar of Permits, has been informed that he will not be reappointed. Among the candidates for the position is William Haskin, a brother of John B. Haskin.

Mayor Edson married three couples yesterday. The first pair were Germans, who soon afterward were succeeded by an Italian couple. The third couple were Germans.

MISS GIBBONS'S SEVERE LOSS.

Miss Sallie J. Gibbons, whose collection of paintings at No. 1,160 Broadway was destroyed by fire on Monday night, was confined to her room at the Leland Hotel yesterday from shock and nervous prostration. A doctor was summoned at 3. a. m., and found her suffering severely from her experience in trying to save her pictures. Miss Gibbons said yesterday: "The estimate of my losses in this morning's Tribune was about right, although the collection may have been worth more—say $60,000. My insurance is from $15,000 to $25,000. The list of paintings published in The Tribune was correct. Nearly all the pictures were my own; only a few having been loaned for the reception. All my friends have been very kind to me. I must have received nearly a hundred messages of sympathy, and even offers of pecuniary aid which of course I cannot accept. I have been nine years making my collection, and money on never replace pictures. A lover of art cannot estimate his loss in that way. What shall I do? I have not the least idea. I must rest first, and trust that it will all come out right. The loss is a bitter one, however."

Of her attempts to save her pictures from the flames, Miss Gibbons said: "I owe my file to Marthy, the waiter, who has served me for four years—the time I have occupied the gallery. Twice I rushed into the fire, until my face was scorched, madly endeavoring to save my treasures, when Martin seized me and dra ged me back. I have lost all my wardrobe, everything being burned. I had been sleeping at No. 1,160 only a short time." MISS GIBBONS'S SEVERE LOSS.

COLLECTIONS NOT ALL IN YET.

Very few of the churches and institutions that took up collections for the liospital Saturday and Sunday Association have made returns to the treasurer, Charles Lanier, but the indications are that more money has been contributed this year than last. There is a disposition on the part of those having the collections in charge to defer making their reports until the last moment in order to have the sum as large as possible. The fiel Presbyterian Church in Fifth-ave, has contribe $600—nearly twice as much as last year. In automodal his congregation on Sunday that he should not be estissied with less than $5,000 for this noble charity. This amount will probably be more than realized before the end of the week. Drexel, Morgan & Co. yesterday sent to Mr. Lanier a check for $1,000. The American Express Company has offered to collect the boxes in the elevated railroad stations and business lonses free of expense. The work was begun vesterday and will be completed to day. The Auxiliary Associations expect to contribute very large sums of money. The Rev. Henry Baker told a TRIBUNE reporter last evening that a special effort would soon be made to awaken an interest among workmen in the association. The collections in the boxes at the elevated railroad stations have been much larger than usual. It is expected that all of the contributions will be reported by Saturday. IS MRS, BUCK INSANE!

Mrs. Susan Buck, the Englishweman who was arreste? in November for stealing jewelry valued at $6000 from Mrs Florence E. Davis, of No. 436 Fifthave. Was arraigned for trial yesterday in the Court of General Sessions. She was engaged as Mrs. Davis a maid on November 13, calling herself Marte Michelet. On the day following she disappeared, taking the jewelry. The defence is insanity. Mrs. Buck testified that she had been in a lunatic asylum in England and one day she escaped through a door that had been left open by a careless attendant. She learned that her husband, A. A. Buck, had gone to the United States taking with him their son, who now is eight years of age. She followed them to this country. She met with considerable difficulty in earning a livelihood and in finding her boy. These troubles upset her mind again. She remembered being engaged by Mrs. Davis, but the visits of a strange woman to the house caused her to fear that she would be taken back to the asylum in England. After that all became a blank until she found herself in prison. The case will go on to-day. Several other charges are pending against the prisoner, including one that she made an attempt to obtain money under false pretences from the Lord Mayor of London.

FIGHTING PRESIDENT GLEASON.

The Board of Aldermen of Long Island City held a meeting yesternay to organize. The Delievoise element in the Board tried to remove Alderman P. J. Gleason from the presidency of the body. There were two candidates for the position, Messra. Gleason and Rassiga. Alderman Gleason protested against the action of the Aldermen, claiming that they had no right to vote for his successor, as under the charter of the city he should retain his office for the full term for which he was elected. His term of office does not expire until next December There were four ballots taken, the vote standing three for Gleason and three for Rassiga. One of the Aldermen who was brought to the meeting in a coach, owing to sickness, refused to vote and thus caused a tie. Alderman Gleason said that the attempt to remove him from the chair was due to officials of the city who desired to put him out of the Water Board, and to stop his investigations in that department. He openly charged Water Commissioners Hallett and Wight with being corrupt. FIGHTING PRESIDENT GLEASON.

ANNUAL MEETING OF AN EXCHANGE.

The Mercantile Exchange held its annual meeting yesterday. James H. Seymour, the retiring president, in the course of an address called attention to the rapid growth of the Exchange. He also spoke of the increase in the price of memberships from $200 to $500, which immediately resulted in the nadition of 255 members to the Exchange and added to the surplus fund over $57,000. The present membership is 801. Mr. Seymour also stated that the lots bought by the Exchange at Harrison and Hudson-sts., which cost $70,000, were now worth $100,000, Treasurer W. H. B. Totten reported the receipts of the year as $93,189 49, and the balance on hand $5,976 70. Secretary Doud also made a report. The following persons were elected officers for the ensuing year: President, Washington Winsor; vice-presidents, John A. Willett, Carlos A. Butler, S. D. Martin and L. B. Miller; treasurer. W. H. B. Totten; executive committee, W. H. Duckworth, John J. Walton, Putnam Conklin, W. E. Worth, Rufus L. Cole, John C. Huser, A. E. Edwards, E. C. Williams and Charles Pierce. ARCHITECTURE IN NEW-YORK.

"A marked characteristic of the more important buildings in New-York of late years," said an arch-itect to a Fribune reporter, "is their solidity. Look at the Produce Exchange Building now in itect to a Tribune reporter, "is their solidity. Look at the Produce Exchange Building now in construction; what massiveness there is in its expression; in the Mills Building, the Tribune Building and others eattered all over the city at intervals, you will find new structures built with an attention to detail, and with the purpose of permanence. The centre or business portion of the city is becoming more thoroughly es ablished now each year. There will be changes, and it will extend its area, but it will be mark d by a better class of buildings. Take such as I bave mentioned, there is no reason why they should not last for centuries. Built of brick with massive stops trimmings, they are calculated to stand the climatic changes; they are as nearly fire proof as it is possible to make buildings; no material is more fireproof than brick, and a tenstery structure built in this manner may be improved to suit the convenience and interests of changing generations, but they will not be torn down; they are too costly. You observe the best work now is mainly of brick with stone trimmings and terra-cotta ornament."

"Is there as much iron work now in new buildings!"

"Is there as much from work now in new buildings!"

There is considerable yet; it makes light, sightly buildings, but compared with those I have referred to they are short lived. The Tribune Building under the rational order of things will survive cen uries without showing its age, but an iron structure under the best care, will begin, I think, to show the weight of years by the close of its first century. The from age has gone by in New-Yora, ien years ago it was at its height, as witness the blocks of iron buildings in Mercer and Greene-sts, and below Canal-st. It was all from them. It would be an interesting distory to trace the various periods of architecture in New-York from the time of the log hurs built by the first Dutch sattiers, inistory is boing repeated now; we are going back to first principles."

ristory is boing repeated now; we are going back to first principles."

"No. to log huts!" asked the reporter.

"No, not exactly that. The first buildings of any importance that were constructed on Manhattan were of cries, brought from Hohand for the purpose. You know what they made, by the old Washington Hotel and the Old Dutch Church, so lately demonshed, when they were well into their second century. The brick in them was like flint, growing harder with age, and the mortar was comented to it. Nearly all those earlier buildings constructed in N w-tork, and indeed, I think those built until nearly fifty or sixty years ago, were of the skull, and Boyian was heid in the Yorkville Police Court to await the result of the lajuries.

Edward Stern left a will bequeathing to his wife an annuity of $4,000 during ner life, providing that six remains unmarried and does not go upon the starse. If these conditions are violated the provision is revoach. To mis sister, Mrs. Paulina Leorgoot, of berlin, Prussia, is bequeathed an annuity of $1,000. Dr. Gustave Mourraidle is given gaining to $1,000. Dr. Gustave Mourraidle is given amounty of $1,000. Dr. Gustave Mourraidle is given provision is freely gent of the city gent of his years, and you see all are brick; the cross and the residence of hity years, and you see all inter of his years, and you see all are or his tree, and the portion resumt after the "great fire" of hity years ago. Go up town now, through the residence of hity years, and you see all are or high the provision of his years, and you see all are or high the provision of his years, and you see all are or high years, and you see all are or high the provision of his years, and you see all are or high the provision of his part of the city during the Revontion and ther, and the portion resumt and to have begon with the Tribune Building and the Western Union, and now it would take columns of your paper to describe them ail. They are not all models in style—Ruskin, I suppose, would show a good many flaws and much bact taste—but the general merit will cover a good deal of error."

What is the principal stone being used now?

"What is the principal stone being used now!" asked the reporter.

"Pretty nearly all kinds; limestone, sandstone, marole and granite. Brown stone has fallen into disrepute somewhat, because it scales so, but I think that is because it has not been laid properly as a rule, and has not bad a fair test. The new Vanderbilt homes I have understood have made use of an Indiana limestone. Various sandstones have been used, but the most popular just now is a Scotch sandstone quarried near Carlisie, Scotland. It has a fine grain, does not scale and is easy to work. This chimate is very severe on many stones. You have seen the brick used in the new Opera House and that in the Casino. There is also an imported brick being used in the city, brought from England. It is a buff color, giazed, and costs about 14 cents per brick. It is to be manufactured by a firm up the Hudson, I have heard, next year, and will come cheaper."

NEED OF A NATIONAL JOUKEY CLUB.

" Racing in the South and Southwest," said "Racing in the South and Southwest," said Colonel Clark, the president of the Louisville Jockey Club the other day to a TRIBUSE reporter, "manneyer been in a more prosperous and healthy condition than at present. In 1872 it was at its very lowest cbb. Since that time it has ridden on a galloping steed to success, until it has enhanced many times the value of the great industry of the wonderful blue-grass country."

"Has the quality of the horses increased in the same proportion!"

on a galloping steed to deceas, that it has can according three the value of the great industry of the wonderful blue grass country."

"Has the quality of the horses increased in the same proportion?"

"Unquestionably. The great breeders have been importing the best stallions from England and France for years. Then the marce have been carefully and intelligently bred until we have a race of horses that, if they do not surpase the English thoroughbreds, certainly equal them, because our mare, I tonk, are better than the English mares; and then we have the advantage of the blue grass and limestone water. From the horses which have been sent over to England and which have won, I think that we have produced superior thoroughbreds at light weights and long distances. Of course, the English racehorses are magnificent animals, but ours have the greater staying powers."

"Do you think that there is a desire to neglect breeding for race in given the more prominent gentlemen to retire from racing to devote their entire attention to breeding. I am very sorry to see such names as August Belmont, Bowen & Co. and Miten Young disappearing from the turf, because the deaths of Reynold, Richards, McGrain and others make many vacancies. The result of this will be that those who remain on the turf will have to guard its interest much more carefully, and in this connection it is proper to urge the establishment of a National jockey club. Some legislation must be undertaken sooner or later, and the sooner the better for the protection of the turf, in order that anything aggestive of fraud can be reached by the adoption of a set of rules which, like the Constitution of the United States, shall be law for all, protecting breeders, owners, associations, the general public and all employes connected with racing, the protectine should be a National jockey club would be overlooked. The sulject of weights to be carried should also be discussed; and, if no rules were actually adopted, a tack appointment of sewards to consider appeals from t

Mayor Low, Supervisor-at-Large Fritz, Mr. Ryder, chairman pro tem. of the Board of Supervisors, and Supervisor Atwater conferred in the will be greater than they ever have been before, for the Kentucky Derby, which will be run on May 22, there are many fast horses entered. Among these are Lord Ragian, Cardinai McCloskey, Barnes, Bondholder, Ascender and Punster, besides many dark ones. The interest in this race is becoming greater every year. Breeders are not content unless their stables are credited with having won one Derby, while the pubile are so interested that people will walk ten miles to see the race."

"Want is thought of Hindoo's having been sent to the stud."

"There is a great deal of satisfaction expressed, and much is anticipated. Hindoo is considered one of the greatest horses that were ever bred. I saw Doneaster and Gladiateur win the English Derby, and believe that Hindeo could have given them weight and won."

DISEASES

OF THE NERVOUS SYSTEM

The importance of the nervous system, his power over the and the direct bearing which it has on human happiness, if thoroughly recognized, its uses and the danger of overtax-ing it, whether through intense mental application or by the excessive indulgence of the appetites and propensities, are proper subjects for consideration. When the nervous system is deranged, it is absolutely necessary to promptly seek advice from an expert who, for a long series of years, has devoted his whole time and attention to this study, and who, from his experience and practice, has learned to discover at once the cause and as promptly apply the remedy, thus avoiding the painfully slow seeking for the truth so common to the mexperienced, and so smooting to the patient, who, very naturally, wants to know without delay what is the matter, the extent of the derangement, the probabilities of recupera-ion, and the time required. If the orain has become exhausted by intens cation, depriving it of the power of connected thought, it can only recover its strength by being properly fed and nourished by the use of certain systematic methods. It is precisely the same with the nerves that preside over organic life. The value of this branch of medical practice can scarcely be overrated, for it reaches marriage, the perpetuation of family names, the securing of nereditary titles, and the retention of estates in the same family. From a long and large experience in this direction, I have been able to command by my success the thankful appre-ciation of some of the first families in the city and Nation, and can communicate much that pertains to the over-exercise of every department of the nervous system and the means of recovering its powers, whether of brain, appetite, propens
